In Soundtracks of Asian America, Grace Wang explores how Asian Americans use music to construct narratives of self, race, class, and belonging in national and transnational spaces. She highlights how they navigate racialization in different genres by considering the experiences of Asians and Asian Americans in Western classical music, U.S. popular music, and Mandopop (Mandarin-language popular music). Her study encompasses the perceptions and motivations of middle-class Chinese and Korean immigrant parents intensely involved in their children's classical music training, and of Asian and Asian American classical musicians whose prominence in their chosen profession is celebrated by some and undermined by others. Wang interviews young Asian American singer-songwriters who use YouTube to contest the limitations of a racialized U.S. media landscape, and she investigates the transnational modes of belonging forged by Asian American pop stars pursuing recording contracts and fame in East Asia. Foregrounding musical spaces where Asian Americans are particularly visible, Wang examines how race matters and operates in the practices and institutions of music making.

"Neaptide races from domestic trauma to staff-room banter ... it bursts with provocative ideas and disturbing questions about human relationships. Most important, it shows that the facade of liberalism and emancipation is merely a translucent gloss." Jewish Chronicle Claire is a history teacher at a local school where two teenage girls have come out. Their principal, Bea Grimble, is none too impressed, and aims to have them expelled. Claire, who had been hiding the fact that she is homosexual, speaks up on behalf of the girls: this in spite of the fact that she is fighting her ex-husband Lawrence for custody of their daughter, the precocious and happy Poppy. All around Claire hardened attitudes are challenged - and confirmed - as she must decide whether to try to maintain a position of honesty, and battle hypocrisy, from within the bounds of the law, or without. A modern story of custody battles, sexual identity and gender politics, framed around the ancient myth of Demeter and her daughter Persephone. Neaptide was the winner of the 1982 George Devine Award and became the first play by a living female writer to be performed at the National Theatre, London, in 1986. This Modern Classics edition feature a new introduction by Dr Carina Bartleet. When Patty Went to College Mutual Publishing Company Boys' Life is the official youth magazine for the Boy Scouts of America. Published since 1911, it contains a proven mix of news, nature, sports, history, fiction, science, comics, and Scouting. The Tufonian Mutual Publishing Company The widespread presence of jazz and blues in African American visual art has long been overlooked. The Hearing Eye makes the case for recognizing the music's importance, both as formal template and as explicit subject matter. Moving on from the use of iconic musical figures and motifs in Harlem Renaissance art, this groundbreaking collection explores the more allusive - and elusive - references to jazz and blues in a wide range of mostly contemporary visual artists. There are scholarly essays on the painters Rose Piper (Graham Lock), Norman Lewis (Sara Wood), Bob Thompson (Richard H. King), Romare Bearden (Robert G. O'Meally, Johannes V?lz) and Jean-Michel Basquiat (Robert Farris Thompson), as well an account of early blues advertising art (Paul Oliver) and a discussion of the photographs of Roy DeCarava (Richard Ings). These essays are interspersed with a series of in-depth interviews by Graham Lock, who talks to quilter Michael Cummings and painters Sam Middleton, Wadsworth Jarrell, Joe Overstreet and Ellen Banks about their musical inspirations, and also looks at art's reciprocal effect on music in conversation with saxophonists Marty Ehrlich and Jane Ira Bloom. With numerous illustrations both in the book and on its companion website, The Hearing Eye reaffirms the significance of a fascinating and dynamic aspect of African American visual art that has been too long neglected.

In a land far, far, away.... and another lifetime really, there was a fair maiden, whose beauty was beyond compare. She was wise way beyond her years, and matured at a very young age. There was a "window of opportunity" in the mid-sixties, that she was mysteriously aware of, and knew instinctively to take advantage of it before it vanished..... she had her mother's blessing, as her mother knew that opportunities rarely came knocking..... For those few short years, she took full advantage of her youth and stunning good looks. Many doors were opened to her, simply because she was lucky in that respect. This is her story and the myriad cast of famous characters who crossed her path from the music, film, and rock and roll heyday

Sixteen years ago, Jean Hee released her first desserts cookbook, Hawaii's Best Local Desserts. Almost a decade later, by popular demand Jean released Hawaii's New Best Local Desserts, a collection of recipes that couldn't be finished on time for her first book (Jean rigorously test and double tests each recipe) and ones that had been passed on by friends and family in the years that followed, some geared for quick preparation for the busy lifestyle that had become the norm. This newest book, The Best of the Best Hawaii

Local Desserts, is a collection of Jean's favorite dessert recipes compiled from all her cookbooks and not just the desserts ones and so they can be found in one convenient volume. For this new compilation, Jean hand-picked the most popular and favorite recipes which she tested and retested. The result is a collection of easy-to-prepare desserts that use ingredients found in any pantry as well as elegant, made-from-scratch masterpieces for those who have the time to bake on a lazy Sunday afternoon. The recipes take advantage of Hawaii's bounty of fruit. There's plenty of bread pudding recipes, chocolate galore, and a wide variety of cookies, bars, tarts and cupcakes that are sure to be an instant hit with any crowd.

And yet we played on, because we had hope that we might be the lucky ones." In the early 1900s, teenaged Sunja, the adored daughter of a crippled fisherman, falls for a wealthy stranger at the seashore near her home in Korea. He promises her the world, but when she discovers she is pregnant--and that her lover is married--she refuses to be bought. Instead, she accepts an offer of marriage from a gentle, sickly minister passing through on his way to Japan. But her decision to abandon her home, and to reject her son's powerful father, sets off a dramatic saga that will echo down through the generations. Richly told and profoundly moving, Pachinko is a story of love, sacrifice, ambition, and loyalty. It is late summer 1923 and young Tom Evans has written a letter to the Lord Mayor of Liverpool, asking him to stop developers from chopping down a horse chestnut tree, in which Tom and his pals have only just finished building a tree-house. When the kids receive word back that the Mayor has ordered the tree's safekeeping, they organise a party to celebrate. However, when Tom sets out that night to a nearby allotment to pinch some apples for the party, a sinister presence has other ideas and unleashes supernatural forces that could lead to Tom's own destruction. Who, or what, will save Tom in his hour of need? Find out this and much more in Jethro Codeine's past-and-present tale of magic and mystery. Exquisitely illustrated by Siobhan

Since 1994, CARDIS has been the foremost international conference dedicated to smart card research and applications. Every two years, the scientific community congregates to present new ideas and discuss recent developments with both an academic and industrial focus. Following the increased capabilities of smart cards and devices, CARDIS has become a major event for the discussion of the various issues related to the use of small electronic tokens in the process of human-machine interactions. The scope of the conference includes numerous subfields such as n-working, efficient implementations, physical security, biometrics, and so on. This year's CARDIS was held in London, UK, on September 8 – 11, 2008. It was organized by the Smart Card Centre, Information Security Group of the Royal Holloway, University of London. The present volume contains the 21 papers that were selected from the 51 submissions to the conference. The 22 members of the program committee worked hard in order to evaluate each submission with at least three reviews and agree on a high quality final program. Additionally, 61 external reviewers helped the committee with their expertise. Two invited talks completed the technical program. The first one, given by Ram Banerjee and Anki Nelaturu, was entitled "Getting Started with Java Card 3.0 Platform". The second one, given by Aline Gouget, was about "Recent Advances in Electronic Cash Design" and was completed by an abstract provided in these proceedings.

In twenty-first-century China, socialist educational traditions have given way to practices that increasingly emphasize the individual.

This volume investigates that trend, drawing on Hansen's fieldwork in a rural high school in Zhejiang where students, teachers, and officials of different generations, genders, and social backgrounds form what is essentially a miniature version of Chinese society. Hansen paints a complex picture of the emerging "neosocialist" educational system and shows how individualization of students both challenges and reinforces state control of society.

La Seduction Springer Science & Business Media

The hidden truth about the French way of life: it's all about seduction—its rules, its pleasures, its secrets France is a seductive country, seductive in its elegance, its beauty, its sensual pleasures, and its joie de vivre. But Elaine Sciolino, the longtime Paris bureau chief of The New York Times, has discovered that seduction is much more than a game to the French: it is the key to understanding France. Seduction plays a crucial role in how the French relate to one another—not just in romantic relationships but also in how they conduct business, enjoy food and drink, define style, engage in intellectual debate, elect politicians, and project power around the world. While sexual repartee and conquest remain at the heart of seduction, for the French seduction has become a philosophy of life, even an ideology, that can confuse outsiders. In La Seduction, Sciolino gives us an inside view of how seduction works in all areas, analyzing its limits as well as its power. She demystifies the French way of life in an entertaining and personal narrative that carries us from the neighborhood shops of Paris to the halls of government, from the gardens of Versailles to the agricultural heartland. La Seduction will charm you and encourage you to lower your defenses about the French. Pull up a chair and let Elaine Sciolino seduce you.
