NO, IT'S NOT HOLY SCRIPTURE written by one of Christ's disciples, nor religious doctrine from the great biblical hunter: Nimrod. This "gospel" is a collection of enlightening and time-proven deer hunting methods and techniques, including helpful tips and no-nonsense advice. Its author is a veteran bowhunter and outdoor writer/photographer with six-plus decades of deer hunting know-how gained firsthand while hunting whitetails, mule deer, and blacktails in every kind of deer country habitat and topography found in 35 different states. SIMPLY STATED, Bowhunting Gospel contains multiple truths and helpful suggestions that can benefit any deer hunter, regardless of the weapon of choice. Sprinkled throughout each chapter, appropriate anecdotes, and photos, give readers words and images supporting the author's message. Fans of Bowhunter Magazine and its longtime editor: M. R. James will immediately recognize the trademark writing style of the award-winning pro journalist, whose first nationally published short stories and deer hunting articles date back to the mid-1960s. BESIDES A CANDID LOOK at 21st Century archery hunting tackle and accessories, treestands and blinds, stalking and still-hunting, safety, shot placement, and blood trails, there's also helpful advice for women and youth hunters, beating target panic, effective camouflage, and scent control solutions. Bowhunting Gospel poses important questions in need of answers: *Are you physically and mentally ready to hunt deer? *What became of hunting the hard way? *Is ground-level hunting a lost art? and *So, you want to shoot a big buck? and much, much more!

Setting Up the Perfect Hunting Bow Skyhorse

I can't really explain my attraction to the bow and arrow. I can't explain the pull of a camp fire either, or the ocean, or the open hills where you can see forever. It's just there. These things are in all of us I think, some vestige of our primitive past buried so deep in our genome as to be inseparable from what it is to be human. What we think of as civilization is a new experiment in the eyes of Father Time. Experts say that humans have been around for some fifty thousand years. We've been carrying the bow for maybe five thousand (atlals and spears before that), and pushing the plow for maybe two thousand. We have been hunters forever. We are built to run, to pursue big game on the open savannas, to kill and eat them. With the dwindling of the Pleistocene mega fauna, mammoths and such, the bow became more important and indeed helped to make us who we are today. It still holds that attraction, same as the hearth. When I was a kid I would make crude bows from green plum branches, big at one end and small at the other. A discarded hay string would serve as a bowstring. My arrows were fat and unfletched and would scarcely fly more than a few yards, usually tumbling over in midair. The small creatures around our home were plenty safe. When I was about 12 or so my brother brought me two old Ben Person recurves he'd found at a yard sale. One was a short bow, probably no more than 48 inches and the other was more of a standard size. They both drew about 50 lbs if I recall. That fall happened to be a good year for cottontails around our little farm and I spent countless hours walking the fields and shooting at them as they busted from underfoot. Although I'd get several shots a day I never did hit one on the fly but I remember that fall fondly nonetheless. The pleasure of jumping rabbits and seeing the feathered shaft streaking toward them was a thrill I've never forgotten. I made my first "real" bow when I was in high school, after getting a copy of the Traditional Bowyers Bible in the mail (more on this in a moment). My first bow, a decrowned mulberry flatbow, broke within about 10 shots. The second held together quite well and is probably still around somewhere and capable of shooting an arrow, though it would probably draw about 70lbs. When I first started making bows I used the woods I had close at hand; mulberry, common persimmon, red maple, white cedar, etc. I'd probably made more than a dozen bows of various woods before I ever saw a piece of Osage. People often ask me where they can find a bow stave and, invariably, I tell them to use what they have close by. No matter where you live, you'll have something near that will make a bow. Go cut it down and get started. This book is an attempt to share some of what I've learned over my years of bow making. The Traditional Bowyers Bible series, as mentioned earlier, is still a great source of information. Why write another book on making wood bows you might ask? The simple answer is that there are so many ways of doing and explaining things. There are still unanswered questions and we'll cover many of them here. We will cover all of the most frequently asked questions, and lay out a simple plan that should guide you through the entire process, from finding a stave to stringing your bow and shooting your first arrow. Some of what you'll find here, you'll find nowhere else.

Drawing on his years of experience, Judd Cooney, one of America's most prominent outdoor writers and photographers, offers practical information on bowhunting big and small game across North America. Cooney shares his unique wealth of hunting information with tips and tactics for pursuing whitetail and Coues deer, elk, caribou, moose, bears, antelopes, mule and blacktail deer, and cougars. He offers sage advice on how to bowhunt for turkeys, javelina, hogs, game birds, and waterfowl and first-rate advice on bowfishing. With Cooney's own practical field experience of over fifty years, you'll find useful suggestions on what to do after the hit and steps for preparing your trophy when afield. This manual also includes a listing of Game and Fish departments throughout North America. With crisp, honest, understandable language, this invaluable reference will teach everything a bowhunter needs to know when he sets out. For those who dream of hunting trips to far-away places or those who simply wish to improve their backyard hunting skills, Bowhunter's Field Manual offers on-target assistance and comprehensible instructions. With the multitude of game that Cooney discusses, this guide is the ideal package—"good reading and generous information offered by an outdoorsman who has lived the words he chooses to share," in the words of M. R. James, author of the book's foreword.
